**The San Damiano Cross is a reproduction of the crucifix through which God spoke to Saint Francis of Assisi in the year 1205, saying, "Go, Francis, and repair my Church which, as you see, is falling into ruin." At first Francis misunderstood and proceeded to repair only the San Damiano Chapel, where this crucifix was located. Eventually his acts of poverty, humility and charity brought about repairs to the entire Catholic Church. The Cross is a painting containing images of Christ's Passion, death, Resurrection and ascension into glory. Its thematic colors are red and black. Red, the color of Christ's blood which He shed for us, symbolizes God's love. Black is the color of death.
